

A geometric pattern composed of thick black and red lines on a white background. The pattern features several interconnected, angular shapes that resemble stylized letters or abstract forms. A prominent red line forms a central, winding path that starts near the top left, moves right, then down, then right again, and finally down towards the bottom center. This red path is surrounded by various black line segments and larger angular shapes, some of which form a border or frame around the central red element. The overall composition is dynamic and abstract, with sharp angles and a high-contrast color scheme.